

Meet Br. Daniel-Joseph ...

Br. Daniel-Joseph Schroeder is the current Guardian of the Community of the Gospel.

Background:

Daniel-Joseph was born and raised in the Milwaukee, Wisconsin area. He completed his undergraduate work at the University of Wisconsin in Hebrew Studies and went on to complete a Masters in Adult Educational Psychology from Northern Illinois University and an MBA in Finance at Concordia University.

His secular work included eight years of service in law enforcement, and over 30 years in the financial services industry in various capacities. He now works from his home as the Guardian for the Community, serving our Members across the country.

Family:

Daniel-Joseph met his spouse, Mary, while they were in high school. Two years after graduating from high school they married, and a year later had their first and only child, Nicole Leah. Nicole is now a journalist and writer. Mary spends her time doing volunteer work, studying, and trying to keep track of Daniel-Joseph.

Daniel-Joseph and Mary live in the country outside of Appleton with their two cats (Zaki and Zorro) and enjoy gardening, hiking, biking and reading. Daniel-Joseph is a member of All Saints Episcopal Church in Appleton and serves as lector, chalice-bearer, and Bible Study leader. He spends time writing and also serves local organizations in various capacities.
